Please Welcome....

It is our pleasure to announce the addition of Deacon Richard Harden from the Diocese of Springfield - Cape Girardeau in southern Missouri as our new Director of Faith Formation. The parish leadership (clergy, finance and parish council) invested in an extensive national search. The search committee received several applications. Qualified candidates were interviewed. Final interviews were done with three candidates. Deacon Richard stood out due to his Catholic formation, experience, resource knowledge, and genuine spirituality.

Deacon Richard has worked as a deacon in both the Diocese of Springfield - Cape Girardeau and Colorado Springs. In addition, he spent the last few years employed in Catholic Media. As a sales consultant for Ascension Press, Deacon Richard had the opportunity to become well versed in Catholic study programs and faith formation materials. At the Augustine Institute he consulted with parishes assessing needs for evangelization, faith formation, and how to foster lay leaders.

As the new Director of Faith Formation, Deacon Richard is excited to collaborate with clergy, teachers, and parish members to evangelize those who are seeking Christ, form those who wish to grow deeper in the faith, and to share Christ's love with our special members, our youth.

Deacon Richard will begin his employment with OLM on July 18, 2020.

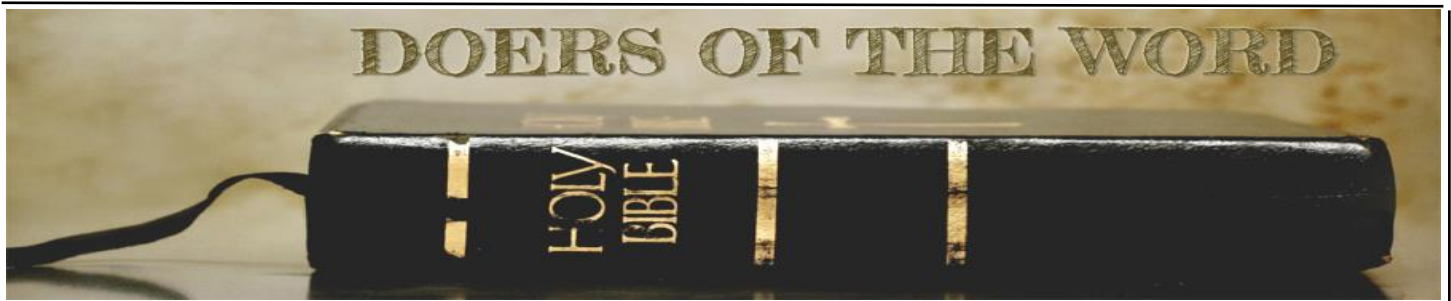

Bienvenido por favor....

Es un placer anunciar la incorporación del Diácono Richard Harden de la Diócesis de Springfield - Cape Girardeau en el sur de Missouri como nuestro nuevo Director de Formación de Fe. El liderazgo de la parroquia (clero, finanzas y consejo parroquial) invirtió en una extensa búsqueda nacional. El comité de búsqueda recibió varias solicitudes. Los candidatos calificados fueron entrevistados. Las entrevistas finales se realizaron con tres candidatos. El diácono Richard se destacó por su formación católica, experiencia, conocimiento de recursos y espiritualidad genuina.

El diácono Richard ha trabajado como diácono tanto en la Diócesis de Springfield - Cape Girardeau como en Colorado Springs. Además, pasó los últimos años empleado en medios católicos. Como consultor de ventas para Ascension Press, el Diácono Richard tuvo la oportunidad de conocer bien los programas de estudio católicos y los materiales de formación en la fe. En el Instituto Agustín consultó con parroquias evaluando las necesidades de evangelización, formación de fe y cómo fomentar líderes laicos.

Como el nuevo Director de Formación de Fe, el Diácono Richard se complace en colaborar con el clero, los maestros y los miembros de la parroquia para evangelizar a aquellos que buscan a Cristo, formar aquellos que desean profundizar en la fe y compartir el amor de Cristo con nuestros miembros especiales. , nuestra juventud.

El diácono Richard comenzará su empleo en OLM el 18 de julio de 2020.

Doers of the Word. Sunday, June 28

My way or the highway!

In today's Gospel, chapter 10, Jesus begins to talk about the cross in a clear manner. He almost talks about it as a way of life. Is there a cross spirituality? I think so! What was happening in the church of Matthew is happening today. We are experiencing persecution and in some places martyrdom. The culture of death is gaining ground and going six-feet under! We fight for a culture of life and hope! In the midst of this Jesus is calling us to the way of the cross. It is a difficult way. We shy away from it. We ignore those verses of the gospel – Luke 6:27-38 and Matthew chapters 5, 6 & 7 - which demand that we take a stand, that we must decide, that we cannot have both God and money. We let political parties compromise our lives even our religious practices. Sometimes we even avoid holding ourselves accountable for our choices. A story that can shine light on this cross spirituality. A master violin maker wanted to choose a disciple to take his place. He showed his students how to make a violin: the wood, hand-carving, varnish, etc. One woman was good, but she lacked one skill – she couldn't determine which tree was the best wood. Repeatedly he took her out to look at the trees. Through the four seasons he showed her what nature did to the trees – cold winter, strong winds, pouring rain, etc. Each time he would ask her, "Which trees hold the wood of the violin?" She would pick the trees that were protected by others from the worst of the weather. The master was not impressed. For the last time he took her out to the forest. In a gale they stood facing the trees. He asked her to talk about the trees. She felt sorry for the battered ones, the ones that formed a weather break for the trees behind. She spoke of her sorrow at how they cracked and bent and even split in the blizzard. He realized why she was making her choices. "Look at them," he commanded, "Listen to the limbs in the wind. Close your eyes and know they are the ones being 'tuned!' At that moment she knew and understood and opened her eyes to see those standing in the forefront, those that stood and faced the elements were already "making music", having absorbed all of the stresses of the elements. From this wood she could make instruments capable of magnificent sound. What the story was doing to the trees is what Jesus is trying to do with us. The harshness of outside forces is part of the process. This is cross spirituality – with all the negative forces – conflict, aggression, demonizing others by name-calling and judging them as not human. Is religious authority devoid of compassion? Is Jesus saying, "It's my way or the highway?"
