Doers of the Word June 19, 2022 CORPUS CHRISTI A broken body for a broken people.

Christianity is the only religion that says that God became a human body. God became flesh, as John's Gospel says (1:14) and the Eucharist celebrates that mystery.

Let's be honest and admit that "eat my body and drink my blood" is scandalous language. (John 6:64-66). Jesus did not say, "Think about this," "Fight about this," "Stare at this." He just said, "Eat this" and "Do this!" Gandhi said, "There are so many hungry people in the world that God could only come into the world in the form of food." God enters our lives not just in the form of sermons or Bibles, but as ingested food and drink. Jesus comes to feed us more than just to teach us.

When we make the Eucharist meal something to define membership, we get into trouble. Too often we use the Eucharist to separate "who's in" from "who's out" who's worthy from who's unworthy. Worthiness is not the issue. If it were, who can stand before God? We say, "Lord, I am not worthy" right before we come to the altar. Do we really mean it? Despite all our attempt to define who is worthy and who is not worthy to receive communion, our only reason for coming to the Eucharist is hunger. And, most often, sinners are much hungrier than the so-called saints.

The issue is not worthiness; the issue is trust and surrender. It all comes down to "confidence and love," as Therese of Lisieux said. St. Augustine said that the proper posture for prayer was standing proud and erect, because we no longer have to grovel before God or fear God, if God is like Jesus. Maybe that's why we process in the streets on Corpus Christi! St. John insists on "fleshy physicality" of it all (John 6:53-66) and even admits that "many left him and stopped going with him." John 6:66. Many are still leaving him.

Jesus says, "If you eat this bread, you will live forever." John 6:51.

Let the Corpus Christi procession begin!

Hacedores de la Palabra 19 de junio de 2022 CORPUS CHRISTI Un cuerpo quebrantado para un pueblo quebrantado.

El cristianismo es la única religión que dice que Dios se hizo un cuerpo humano. Dios se hizo carne, como dice el Evangelio de Juan (1,14) y la Eucaristía celebra ese misterio.

Seamos honestos y admitamos que "come mi cuerpo y bebe mi sangre" es un lenguaje escandaloso. (Juan 6:64-66). Jesús no dijo: "Piensa en esto", "Pelea por esto", "Mira esto". Simplemente dijo: "Come esto" y "¡Haz esto!" Gandhi dijo: "Hay tantas personas hambrientas en el mundo que Dios solo pudo venir al mundo en forma de comida". Dios entra en nuestras vidas no solo en forma de sermones o Biblias, sino también como comida y bebida ingerida. Jesús viene a alimentarnos más que a enseñarnos.

Cuando hacemos de la comida eucarística algo para definir la membresía, nos metemos en problemas. Con demasiada frecuencia usamos la Eucaristía para separar "quién está dentro" de "quién está fuera", quién es digno de quién es indigno. La valía no es el problema. Si lo fuera, ¿quién puede estar de pie ante Dios? Decimos, "Señor, no soy digno" justo antes de llegar al altar. ¿Lo decimos en serio? A pesar de todo nuestro intento de definir quién es digno y quién no es digno de recibir la comunión, nuestra única razón para venir a la Eucaristía es el hambre. Y, en la mayoría de los casos, los pecadores tienen mucha más hambre que los llamados santos.

El asunto no vale la pena; el tema es la confianza y la entrega. Todo se reduce a "la confianza y el amor", como dijo Teresa de Lisieux. San Agustín dijo que la postura adecuada para la oración era estar de pie orgulloso y erguido, porque ya no tenemos que arrastrarnos ante Dios ni temer a Dios, si Dios es como Jesús. ¡Quizás por eso procesionamos en las calles en Corpus Christi! San Juan insiste en la "fiscalidad carnal" de todo esto (Juan 6:53-66) e incluso admite que "muchos lo dejaron y dejaron de ir con él". Juan 6:66. Muchos todavía lo dejan.

Jesús dice: "Si comes de este pan, vivirás para siempre". Juan 6:51.
